a quiet portrait of who you are. Find yours on the pages that follow.*

THE FRAGRANCE PERSONALITIES · DHYOM.IN

BEFORE YOU FIND YOURS

YOU DON'T CHOOSE A SCENT. IT CHOOSES YOU.

---

There is always one fragrance you return to. The one that feels less like a smell and more like a room you already know. That pull is not random.

Scent reaches the oldest part of us — the part that holds memory and feeling before thought arrives. So the fragrance you love isn't only a preference. It's a reflection of how you move through the world, what you value, the atmosphere you carry into a room.

"Tell me the scent you never tire of, and I will tell you something true about who you are."

On the pages that follow are five fragrances, and five kinds of people. Find the one you're drawn to. See how much of it you recognise.

I

SANDALWOOD

THE ROOTED ONE

YOU CARRY OLD THINGS GRACEFULLY. Tradition, memory, the weight of where you come from — you don't run from them, you wear them, and somehow they make you more modern, not less. There is a gravity to you. People trust you quickly and aren't always sure why. You value what lasts over what is loud, depth over decoration. Sandalwood has anchored sacred spaces for a thousand years for the same reason people are drawn to you: it feels permanent in a world that rarely is.

II

LAVENDER

THE STILLNESS KEEPER

YOU ARE THE CALM THE ROOM BORROWS. Not because life is quiet around you — it rarely is — but because you learned, somewhere along the way, that peace is something you build, not something you're given. People come to you to feel steadier. You rarely rush. You've made an art of the slow evening, the unhurried morning, the deliberate pause most people forget to take. Lavender does not calm you. It simply matches the calm you already carry.

III

VANILLA

THE WARM KEEPER

YOU ARE THE ONE PEOPLE FEEL SAFE AROUND. Not soft — warm, which is a different thing entirely. You make rooms feel lived in and loved. There is a generosity to you that never announces itself; you simply make people feel held, remembered, welcome. You understand that comfort is not the absence of beauty but its most intimate form. Vanilla is the scent of home for a reason — and so, quietly, are you.

IV

COFFEE

THE QUIET FORCE

YOU RUN ON A DIFFERENT CURRENT THAN MOST. While others wait for the day to begin, you have already met it. There is an intensity beneath your calm — a focus people mistake for stillness until they see what you accomplish. You are drawn to depth over sweetness, substance over show. You don't need the room to notice you; the work speaks, the results speak. Coffee is grounding and bold at once — restless and rooted in the same breath, exactly like you.

CITRUS

THE BRIGHT SPIRIT

YOU ARE THE LIGHT THAT CHANGES A ROOM THE MOMENT YOU ENTER IT. Quick, warm, alive — you carry an energy that lifts the people around you without any effort at all. You find joy where others find routine. You are the first to laugh, the one who opens the windows, who insists the day can still be good. There is nothing shallow about your brightness; it takes real strength to stay light. Citrus is clarity and joy in a single breath — and so are you.

NOW THAT YOU KNOW

BRING YOUR SCENT HOME.

Perhaps you recognised yourself on one page.
Perhaps you saw someone you love on another — and now you know exactly which fragrance was always meant for them.

A scent chosen this way is never just a purchase.
It is a small act of knowing yourself, and the people you keep close.
